POILUS HOLDING ON MARNE WITH GERMANS 12 MI. FROM CAPITAL

(By the Associated Press)

Battle-stained French Poilus fought doggedly in a "last ditch" defense of Paris today—reportedly holding fast on the old World war battlefields of Chateau Thierry and Meaux along the Marne—while the German high command said its armies had smashed to within 12½ miles of the French capital on the northwest.

"Nowhere have the French defenses been pierced," said a Paris spokesman, who cited terrific German assaults all along the western front from the lower (west) Seine to the Argonne forest.

The Germans reported advances from 50 to 70 miles toward Paris "on many fronts" in the last six days of the titanic struggle.

"Our offensive," it was said, "is going ahead of schedule."

A report from the nazi front said quick-firing German anti-aircraft guns, levelled off with an effective horizontal range of eight miles, had destroyed 200 allied tanks.

Italian Coast Attacked

Rome reported the first enemy assault on Italian soil since Premier Mussolini declared war Monday—an unspecified attack on the Ligurian coast, where the great Italian shipping port of Genoa is situated. Earlier, London had reported a British bombing attack on northern Italy.

Prime Minister Churchill conferred with Premier Reynaud and Generalissimo Weygand somewhere in France Tuesday and reached "complete agreement" on steps vital to meet the German onslaught.

Mussolini's fascist warriors meanwhile were reported massing along France's southern frontier, in the Alps. They were said to have between 60 and 70 divisions—about 900,000 to 1,050,000 men—ready to hurl against the already beleaguered French.

The London Daily Herald reported that 200,000 Ethiopian troops wearing the uniform of the ex-Emperor Haile Selassie, the conquered "Lion of Judah," are battling Italian troops in fascist-occupied Ethiopia.

"In the northwest provinces of Gojam and Harar, four (Italian) garrison towns are surrounded by Ethiopians," said the London newspaper.

FORMER HEAD OF NURSES WEDS

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss E. Mary Black, daughter of Charles W. Black, 401 York street, and Joseph H. Kepner, son of Mrs. Mary A. Kepner, of Hampton. The marriage took place in Winchester, Virginia, June 3. The Rev. Mr. Huneycutt, pastor of the Winchester Lutheran church, officiated at a single ring ceremony. There were no attendants.

Mrs. Kepner recently resigned her position as superintendent of nurses at the Warner hospital. She had been associated with the local hospital for ten years. Prior to joining the nursing staff here Mrs. Kepner graduated from the Washington county hospital.

Mr. Kepner was foreman of the O'Sullivan Rubber company, formerly the Victor Products corporation, Gettysburg, for many years. Last November he accepted a position as civil engineer and superintendent of construction at the new United States Army air base, Borinquen, Puerto Rico. Mr. Kepner flew to Gettysburg from Puerto Rico on June 1 for his wedding.

The newly-married couple left for New York this morning and on Thursday sail aboard the Conmo, of the New York-Puerto Rico steamship lines for Puerto Rico where they will reside.

A number of Gettysburg and Adams county residents are residing at Borinquen where they are engaged in constructing the new air base.

Rice—Shultz

The marriage of Miss Geraldine Shultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shultz, Cross Keys, to C. Donald Rice, Richmond, Indiana, at Washington, D. C., on February 21 has been announced by the bride's parents.

Mrs. Rice attended the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston. Mr. Rice is a graduate of the Peabody Institute.

The couple, who had been residing in Washington since their marriage, are residing at the Cross Keys hotel where Mr. Rice has assumed a position on the hotel staff.

BULLETINS

London, June 12 (AP)—The Egyptian chamber of deputies today approved a declaration by Prime Minister Ali Maher Pasha severing diplomatic relations with Italy, Reuters (British news agency) reported in a dispatch from Cairo.

Behind The News

Interpretations of two phases of the European war are printed on page two of today's Gettysburg Times. The one gives DeWitt MacKenzie's opinion of General Weygand's lines and the other is an explanation of the financial set-up in Germany. The latter was written by Claude A. Jagger, financial editor of The Associated Press.

Berlin, June 12 (AP)—The German high command announced tonight that French troops surrounded at St. Valery, on the English channel, had capitulated and that more than 20,000 prisoners had been taken.

London, June 12 (AP)—A 20-mile strip along the southern coast of England was forbidden to aliens in a new defense order issued today.

New York, June 12 (AP)—Inspired by the defense of Paris and increasing American industrial activity, traders turned to the buying side of the market today in a rush which sent shares four to nine points higher.

Bern, June 12 (AP)—The federal government of Switzerland announced officially today that examination of aerial bombs which killed four persons and wounded many others around Lake Leman this morning showed them to be of British origin.

NAVY ORDERS WORK STARTED ON 2 WARSHIPS

Washington, June 12 (AP)—The Navy announced today that work was ordered started on two new 45,000-ton battleships and 22 other warships and auxiliaries Tuesday night, within an hour after President Roosevelt signed the Navy's $1,400,000,000 appropriation act.

The two battleships were assigned to the New York and Philadelphia Navy yards, respectively, and the other vessels were divided between government and commercial yards.

Officials said the Navy acted with swiftness unmatched even in the World war. The contracts for nine warships assigned to commercial shipbuilding plants had been negotiated while final action on the appropriation was awaited.

The 24 ships will cost more than $327,000,000 to complete, it was estimated.

93 Planes for Allies

The speed with which the Navy acted found its Army counterpart in measures which were said to be designed both to strengthen defenses and furnish substantial assistance to the British and French allies.

A group of 93 airplanes and millions of dollars worth of munitions were being made available to the allies by the Army under the government's "trade-in" plan of aid.

The 93 war planes, Northrop attack ships, were being concentrated at Houlton, Maine, on the Canadian border. The Douglas Aircraft corporation of Burbank, California, successor to the Northrop company, was reported to have agreed to accept them in payment on new planes to be delivered later to the Army.

Soroptimists Donate $10 to Summer Camp

Members of the Gettysburg Soroptimist club held their June business meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Rosalie Raffensperger, Arendtsville, with the president, Miss Mary Ramer, presiding. The club voted $10 to the Gettysburg boys' recreation camp at Camp Ganoga.

The dinner meeting of the club on June 25 at the Blue Parrot tea room will be the last session until September. York, Hanover and Harrisburg Soroptimists will be guests and Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars will be the speaker.

I. O. O. F. Conference To Be Held Here on Monday

A district conference of the councils of the Order of Independent Americans, including Adams and nearby counties, will be held next Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Battlefield council No. 717 hall, the Murphy building, Baltimore street.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Dorothy Rexroth, Gettysburg R. 4, has been admitted as a patient to the Warner hospital. Mrs. George Glenn and infant son, George Washington, Jr., Fairfield, and Mrs. Fred Kahler and infant son, Fred Harold, 3rd, Lee-Meade inn, have been discharged.

ASSISTANCE CASES REDUCED

A marked decrease in the total number of assistance cases of all types being handled June 1 in Adams county from the totals for May, 1939, and for April of this year was reported at the June meeting of the Adams County Public Assistance board on Tuesday afternoon at the North Washington street offices.

Chairman James B. Aumen presided at the meeting with all seven members of the board in attendance.

Projects Approved

The board approved relief-work projects sponsored by Biglerville and Bendersville boroughs providing general work for employable relief recipients in those towns. These projects bring to 12 the total number of relief-work projects under way in the county.

The case load in this county as of June 1 was reported as follows by Col. J. L. Barton, executive director for the board: 517 old age assistance cases receiving an average of $17 per person per month; 71 blind pension cases receiving $30 per person per month; 115 cases of aid to dependent children involving 460 persons receiving an average of $7.60 per person per month and 169 general assistance cases involving 585 persons who received an average of $7 each per month.

Cost of Relief

On the basis of the average figures the total relief cost this month will be $18,970 for the 1633 persons involved. In May of 1939 the total was $21,739.56 for 2,064 persons and in April of this year the bill was $20,059.06 for 1,810 persons.

The board disposed of several cases before it because persons had failed to report for work. One case offered a valid reason for the failure but in another relief was discontinued because of the failure to go to work.

Justices of Peace Support Axiom: "Never too Old to Learn" as They Get Ready for "Law School" Here

ADAMS county's justices of the peace and a few visiting justices from nearby parts of York county will start to "law school" this evening when District Attorney J. There will be another session Thursday evening with the final session slated for next Wednesday evening when there will be an opportunity given for the justices to ask questions about the subjects covered.

SHAME!

At six o'clock on the evening of June 10, 1940, a bald-headed, short, puggy, black-shirted Italian dictator stood on a small balcony of Palazzo Venezia just off his spacious, mosaic-floored, fake-columned private office, almost in the heart of Rome, Italy, and addressed a noisy throng of paid hirelings who cheered at given signals during a fourteen minute speech.

The speaker was the Il Duce of Fascist Italy. The occasion his unprovoked declaration of war against England and France, the two nations which saved his country from almost certain eradication at the hands of his present ally . . . Germany.

The Duce made his long-expected and inglorious entry into war as the hordes of his Axis partner were battering at the doors of Paris . . . bent on what Hitler declares "will be the complete annihilation of France and England."

The day will be memorable in that it will mark a smeared blot on the pages of civilized history . . . the day on which a supposedly Christian country locked arms with the Godless adherents of Hitlerism . . . the day on which Fascist Italy went to war for the fourth time in less than twenty years . . . the day on which Italy deserted the ranks of civilized nations.

Benito Amilcare Andrea Mussolini was born at Varano di Costa, Italy, on Sunday, July 29, 1883, a son of a school teacher and a blacksmith. It was only because his mother insisted that his father, who was under strict police surveillance at the time, consented to have the pink bambino baptized.

Baby Rose Marie Heads Acts for South Mt. Fair From September 11 to 14

Preparations for the 1940 South Mountain fair are progressing nicely, reports of department heads revealed Tuesday evening at the annual dinner meeting of the fair association at the Biglerville hotel. All departments have been busy during recent months and the finance committee already has contracted for an entertainment program headed by Baby Rose Marie, radio star.

M. E. Knouse, executive committee chairman, secured approval Monday evening of his proposal for a free public preview of the entire fair on Tuesday evening, September 10.

The fair will open Wednesday morning, September 11, and continue through Thursday, Friday and Saturday of that week. The dates are September 11 to 14.

With a single exception department heads remain the same as last year and there are few changes in assistants, Mr. Knouse stated. He announced the appointment of Mrs. Garnet Coble, Wenksville, as head of the vegetable display department to succeed her late father, Parker W. Cline. The fair leaders stood briefly Monday evening with bowed heads in tribute to Mr. Cline who for years had taken an active part in the annual community event.

Stresses Importance of Fair

The business session, which was attended by 59 members of the association and guests, followed a fried chicken dinner served in the main dining room of the Biglerville hotel.

Mr. Knouse, who presided during the evening, opened his remarks with the observation that the attendance was the best ever achieved at the annual dinner session and said he saw in that fact an indication of marked interest "in this important project for our community." He stressed the importance of the fair to the young people of the county and "to those for whom the fair is the biggest thing in their lives."

"Let's make it one of the best fairs we ever held," he urged.

Other Entertainers

Then he announced the entertainment acts contracted for with Baby Rose Marie heading the list of stars. "Reds" Smith, musical comedy star, will serve as the master of ceremonies. The Carter sisters will present a trapeze and dance act and Stone and Victor, nationally known ballroom dancers, will be included on the program.

There will be a troupe of Arab acrobats and Jeanette Garret will do tap dancing. Donley and Betty will handle the comedy and June Boyd will offer song and dance numbers while musical accompaniment for the entire bill of entertainment will be provided by the Southern Rhythm Girls. The fair's contract is with the Frank Melville company of New York city.

Mr. Knouse revealed that due to a cut in the state appropriations for all fairs the South Mountain Fair association will receive only $790 this year instead of the $1,008 received last year. The state funds last year kept the fair "out of the red" by a slight margin.

Make Recommendations

Departments heads were called upon for recommendations. Mrs. Herbert Bryan, home economics, had no requests for her division of the fair. Mrs. Guy Herring, head of the culinary department, asked for a large sign in front of that building. Glenn Slaybaugh reported for the horticulture exhibit and Mrs. Robert Eicholtz asked more space for the flower display. B. E. Bushey, in charge of the grade school exhibits, reported next and then E. C. McDannell, cattle department head, asked whether that department should be expanded above one breed of dairy cattle an dthe 4-H baby beeves. The question was held over for consideration at the next meeting.

Russell Mollenauer, assistant county farm agent, asked for an adjustment in the awards offered the exhibitors of the baby beeves. John Raffensperger reported only whitewashing and minor repairs are needed for the swine exhibit quarters. Charles Fidler reported for the horse department and the poultry department under the direction of Charles Smith and Cecil Snyder was reported in good condition. Elias N. Hoffman said no changes are needed in

The camporee was non-competitive but the participating scouts were inspected on a total of 38 points including first and final inspections, use of camp site, equipment, food, safety and sanitation, program and activities, patrol organization and leadership. No ratings were announced by Commissioner Cessna who made the inspections but points where improvements could be made before the area camporee to be held near Abbottstown on Friday were stressed.

Scouts at the area camporee will be rated and those achieving a rating of 900 points or more will be classed as a grade A camper and will receive a medallion. Other awards will be given boys making ratings of 700 or more.

A trio of scouts from troop 74 of Gettysburg presented special music during the Monday evening stunts by seven patrols in camp. They were under the direction of Frank Deering, the troop's assistant scoutmaster.

POILUS HOLDING ON MARNE WITH GERMANS 12 MI. FROM CAPITAL

(By the Associated Press)

Battle-stained French Poilus fought doggedly in a "last ditch" defense of Paris today—reportedly holding fast on the old World war battlefields of Chateau Thierry and Meaux along the Marne—while the German high command said its armies had smashed to within 12½ miles of the French capital on the northwest.

"Nowhere have the French defenses been pierced," said a Paris spokesman, who cited terrific German assaults all along the western front from the lower (west) Seine to the Argonne forest.

The Germans reported advances from 50 to 70 miles toward Paris "on many fronts" in the last six days of the titanic struggle.

"Our offensive," it was said, "is going ahead of schedule."

A report from the nazi front said quick-firing German anti-aircraft guns, levelled off with an effective horizontal range of eight miles, had destroyed 200 allied tanks.

Italian Coast Attacked

Rome reported the first enemy assault on Italian soil since Premier Mussolini declared war Monday—an unspecified attack on the Ligurian coast, where the great Italian shipping port of Genoa is situated. Earlier, London had reported a British bombing attack on northern Italy.

Prime Minister Churchill conferred with Premier Reynaud and Generalissimo Weygand somewhere in France Tuesday and reached "complete agreement" on steps vital to meet the German onslaught.

Mussolini's fascist warriors meanwhile were reported massing along France's southern frontier, in the Alps. They were said to have between 60 and 70 divisions—about 900,000 to 1,050,000 men—ready to hurl against the already beleaguered French.

The London Daily Herald reported that 200,000 Ethiopian troops wearing the uniform of the ex-Emperor Haile Selassie, the conquered "Lion of Judah," are battling Italian troops in fascist-occupied Ethiopia.

"In the northwest provinces of Gojam and Harar, four (Italian) garrison towns are surrounded by Ethiopians," said the London newspaper.

FORMER HEAD OF NURSES WEDS

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss E. Mary Black, daughter of Charles W. Black, 401 York street, and Joseph H. Kepner, son of Mrs. Mary A. Kepner, of Hampton. The marriage took place in Winchester, Virginia, June 3. The Rev. Mr. Hunneycutt, pastor of the Winchester Lutheran church, officiated at a single ring ceremony. There were no attendants.

Mrs. Kepner recently resigned her position as superintendent of nurses at the Warner hospital. She had been associated with the local hospital for ten years. Prior to joining the nursing staff here Mrs. Kepner graduated from the Washington county hospital.

Mr. Kepner was foreman of the O'Sullivan Rubber company, formerly the Victor Products corporation, Gettysburg, for many years. Last November he accepted a position as civil engineer and superintendent of construction at the new United States Army air base, Borinquen, Puerto Rico. Mr. Kepner flew to Gettysburg from Puerto Rico on June 1 for his wedding.

The newly-married couple left for New York this morning and on Thursday sail aboard the Coamo, of the New York-Puerto Rico steamship lines for Puerto Rico where they will reside.

A number of Gettysburg and Adams county residents are residing at Borinquen where they are engaged in constructing the new air base.

NAVY ORDERS WORK STARTED ON 2 WARSHIPS

Washington, June 12 (AP)—The Navy announced today that work was ordered started on two new 45,000-ton battleships and 22 other warships and auxiliaries Tuesday night, within an hour after President Roosevelt signed the Navy's $1,400,000,000 appropriation act.

The two battleships were assigned to the New York and Philadelphia Navy yards, respectively, and the other vessels were divided between government and commercial yards.

Officials said the Navy acted with swiftness unmatched even in the World war. The contracts for nine warships assigned to commercial shipbuilding plants had been negotiated while final action on the appropriation was awaited.

The 24 ships will cost more than $327,000,000 to complete, it was estimated.

93 Planes for Allies

The speed with which the Navy acted found its Army counterpart in measures which were said to be designed both to strengthen defenses and furnish substantial assistance to the British and French allies.

A group of 93 airplanes and millions of dollars worth of munitions were being made available to the allies by the Army under the government's "trade-in" plan of aid.

The 93 war planes, Northrop attack ships, were being concentrated at Houlton, Maine, on the Canadian border. The Douglas Aircraft corporation of Burbank, California, successor to the Northrop company, was reported to have agreed to accept them in payment on new planes to be delivered later to the Army.

ASSISTANCE CASES REDUCED

A marked decrease in the total number of assistance cases of all types being handled June 1 in Adams county from the totals for May, 1939, and for April of this year was reported at the June meeting of the Adams County Public Assistance board on Tuesday afternoon at the North Washington street offices.

Chairman James B. Aumen presided at the meeting with all seven members of the board in attendance.

Projects Approved

The board approved relief-work projects sponsored by Biglerville and Bendersville boroughs providing general work for employable relief recipients in those towns. These projects bring to 12 the total number of relief-work projects under way in the county.

The case load in this county as of June 1 was reported as follows by Col. J. L. Barton, executive director for the board: 517 old age assistance cases receiving an average of $17 per person per month; 71 blind pension cases receiving $30 per person per month; 115 cases of aid to dependent children involving 469 persons receiving an average of $7.60 per person per month and 169 general assistance cases involving 585 persons who received an average of $7 each per month.

Cost of Relief

On the basis of the average figures the total relief cost this month will be $18,970 for the 1633 persons involved. In May of 1939 the total was $21,739.56 for 2,064 persons and in April of this year the bill was $20,059.06 for 1,810 persons.

The board disposed of several cases before it because persons had failed to report for work. One case offered a valid reason for the failure but in another relief was discontinued because of the failure to go to work.

SHAME!

At six o'clock on the evening of June 10, 1940, a bald-headed, short, puggy, black-shirted Italian dictator stood on a small balcony of Palazzo Venezia just off his spacious, mosaic-floored, fake-columned private office, almost in the heart of Rome, Italy, and addressed a noisy throng of paid hirelings who cheered at given signals during a fourteen minute speech.

The speaker was the Il Duce of Fascist Italy. The occasion his unprovoked declaration of war against England and France, the two nations which saved his country from almost certain eradication at the hands of his present ally . . . Germany.

The Duce made his long-expected and inglorious entry into war as the hordes of his Axis partner were battering at the doors of Paris . . . bent on what Hitler declares "will be the complete annihilation of France and England."

Baby Rose Marie Heads Acts for South Mt. Fair From September 11 to 14

Preparations for the 1940 South Mountain fair are progressing nicely, reports of department heads revealed Tuesday evening at the annual dinner meeting of the fair association at the Biglerville hotel. All departments have been busy during recent months and the finance committee already has contracted for an entertainment program headed by Baby Rose Marie, radio star.

M. E. Knouse, executive committee chairman, secured approval Monday evening of his proposal for a free public preview of the entire fair on Tuesday evening, September 10.

The fair will open Wednesday morning, September 11, and continue through Thursday, Friday and Saturday of that week. The dates are September 11 to 14.

With a single exception department heads remain the same as last year and there are few changes in assistants, Mr. Knouse stated. He announced the appointment of Mrs. Garnet Coble, Wenksville, as head of the vegetable display department to succeed her late father, Parker W. Cline. The fair leaders stood briefly Monday evening with bowed heads in tribute to Mr. Cline who for years had taken an active part in the annual community event.

Stresses Importance of Fair

The business session, which was attended by 59 members of the association and guests, followed a fried chicken dinner served in the main dining room of the Biglerville hotel.

Mr. Knouse, who presided during the evening, opened his remarks with the observation that the attendance was the best ever achieved at the annual dinner session and said he saw in that fact an indication of marked interest "in this important project for our community." He stressed the importance of the fair to the young people of the county and "to those for whom the fair is the biggest thing in their lives."

"Let's make it one of the best fairs we ever held," he urged.

Other Entertainers

Then he announced the entertainment acts contracted for with Baby Rose Marie heading the list of stars. "Reds" Smith, musical comedy star, will serve as the master of ceremonies. The Carter sisters will present a trapeze and dance act and Stone and Victor, nationally known ballroom dancers, will be included on the program.

There will be a troupe of Arab acrobats and Jeanette Garret will do tap dancing. Donley and Betty will handle the comedy and June Boyd will offer song and dance numbers while musical accompaniment for the entire bill of entertainment will be provided by the Southern Rhythm Girls. The fair's contract is with the Frank Melville company of New York city.

Mr. Knouse revealed that due to a cut in the state appropriations for all fairs the South Mountain Fair association will receive only $790 this year instead of the $1,000 received last year. The state funds last year kept the fair "out of the red" by a slight margin.

Make Recommendations

Departments heads were called upon for recommendations. Mrs. Herbert Bryan, home economics, had no requests for her division of the fair. Mrs. Guy Herring, head of the culinary department, asked for a large sign in front of that building. Glenn Slaybaugh reported for the horticulture exhibit and Mrs. Robert Eicholtz asked more space for the flower display. B. E. Bushey, in charge of the grade school exhibits, reported next and then E. C. McDannell, cattle department head, asked whether that department should be expanded above one breed of dairy cattle an dthe 4-H baby beeves. The question was held over for consideration at the next meeting.

Russell Mollenauer, assistant county farm agent, asked for an adjustment in the awards offered the exhibitors of the baby beeves. John Raffensperger reported only whitewashing and minor repairs are needed for the swine exhibit quarters. Charles Fidler reported for the horse department and the poultry department under the direction of Charles Smith and Cecil Snyder was reported in good condition. Elias N. Hoffman said no changes are needed in

Scouts at the area camporee will be rated and those achieving a rating of 900 points or more will be classed as a grade A camper and will receive a medallion. Other awards will be given boys making ratings of 700 or more.

New York, June 12—War is fantastically costly, yet a nation internationally bankrupt and vastly deficient in natural resources is able to build and launch a war machine of such might and destructiveness as to shake the world.

How does Germany do it, in defiance of traditional economics, in seeming repudiation of all accepted canons of finance?

It was only six years ago that the reich, denuded of gold and foreign balances, and her credit shattered, suspended payments on all foreign debts.

Dr. Schacht, then head of the reichsbank, complained of his country's depending on foreign raw materials, appealed to the world for a "spirit of compromise, patience and good will." Financially and economically, the nation seemed down and out.

Yet within a few months Adolf Hitler was rapidly developing his vast and costly armament program.

Cost 36 Billions to Re-Arm

Last autumn Hitler said he had spent 90 billions of reichmarks to re-arm. The world was incredulous. Since the German currency was unbacked by gold, and had no free world market, one could not say how much that was in dollars, but at the official rate, it would come to 36 billions.

What Germany is currently spending is not known, but the rate of expenditure is enormous.

Any consideration of what can be spent on war, economists explain, must begin by banishing all peacetime standards.

In 1914 economists were almost unanimous that no nation was financially able to wage war for more than a few months. Yet the direct money outlays of the first World war, exclusive of costs of loss of life, destruction of property, depreciation of capital and loss of trade, has been calculated at the astronomical figure of 186 billions of dollars, about seven times the entire amount spent by the United States government from 1789 to 1916.

Consideration of how Germany, a "poor," "have-not," nation, has been able to pay for its breath-taking adventure in conquest, in this era when war rolls on wheels and plunges through the clouds and is immeasurably more expensive than in 1914-18, must go back to the beginning of the nazi regimes.

Government Controls Everything

Hitler found some 30 per cent of German workers unemployed, factories were idle, there was lack of money to import essential materials and food supplies. In this crisis, Germans willingly acquiesced in a system of controls of industry, labor, trade and finance such as had never before been applied in any modern, industrialized nation.

These controls increased until today, if you are a German, the government tells you what you may eat, what you may wear, where you must work, the hours you shall labor, what wages you may receive, what prices you shall pay for the essentials of life.

Borrow Citizens' Savings

If you are a manufacturer, you are told what you shall make, what you will sell it for, and that after you have paid your taxes, profits left must be loaned to your government. If you operate a savings bank or an insurance company, you are told where you must invest the funds of your institution.

Only last month, the British government asked and received similar authoritarian powers. Regimentation is a program of enormous detail, and takes time. Hitler had a six-year start.

Germany is paying not only by levying staggering taxes, and borrowing all the people's savings the government can lay its hands on but by severe sacrifice of the standard of living, and of the creature comforts of her people.

Of food, one may have but one pound of meat a week. Only cabbages and potatoes are reasonably plentiful. You are told exactly what items of clothing you may buy in a year, and the quota per person makes prison life in America seem almost opulent. For instance, women are allowed four pairs of stockings annually.

Thus, economists explain, the whole national effort is geared for war.

But aside from the intensive internal organization of the reich, she has the problem of finding ways to obtain essential materials from abroad. Of three principal industrial materials—coal, iron, and petroleum—Germany is well supplied only with coal. Domestic sources of cotton, wool, copper, rubber and a host of other materials are lacking.

First, say international trade authorities, it must be remembered that Germany imported more than her normal needs of many supplies in the years before the war. Also, early in the nazi regime, all foreign trade was placed under rigid regulation.

Presbyterian Group To Arrange Picnic

Officers and teachers of the Gettysburg Presbyterian Sunday school named a general committee to set the date, decide upon the place and make all arrangements for the annual church and Sunday school picnic. The meeting was held at the home of the general superintendent, E. Donald Scott, Baltimore street. Mr. Scott presided at the meeting with 15 persons present.

The picnic committee includes: Hugh C. McIlhenny, George M. Zerfing, Mrs. Anna Plank, Miss Margaret Larson, G. Kenneth Newbould, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Wolff, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alexander, Professor and Mrs. Herbert Hamme, James R. McConaghie and Donald P. McPherson, Jr., Esq.

The resignation of Mrs. Thomas Quick, formerly Miss Jean Myers, as a teacher in the junior-intermediate department was accepted and Mrs. H. C. McIlhenny was elected in her place.

A wiener roast followed the business session.

There will be no July or August meetings of the group.

FIREMEN TO MEET

The June meeting of the Gettysburg fire company will be held this evening at 7 o'clock at the Firemen's Retreat in the South Mountains. President James B. Aumen will preside.

LICENSED TO WED

A marriage license has been secured in Frederick by Harry Gottshall, Mt. Holly Springs, and Alice Smith, of near Gardners.

MacKenzie Says: Weygand Has "Solid" Line Near Paris

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

When you see the epic stand the French Poilus are making before Paris in the face of terrific odds, you understand how it is that men can cheer while comrades are dying.

This devotion and sacrifice make it possible still to record that the allied position is no more serious than it has been for days.

Indeed, the French high command having decided to withdraw to positions south of the historic Marne river, which flanks the capital to the East, the defense should be considerably easier.

Generalissimo Weygand's strategy apparently contemplates also utilizing the Seine, which forms a flank for Paris to the west, as a complementary defense line, although his present front bulges out to the north of the capital.

First "Solid" Line

This Marne-Seine combination would give him the first "solid" front the French have had since the Germans crashed the allied line up on the Somme and Aisne river early in the offensive. Strategically it is stronger, for the terrain makes it easier of defense.

Whether the Germans will be able to force their way into the beleaguered city depends on how much their stamina has been sapped by the fury of their protracted offensive.

They have the men and materials to turn the trick—but have they the reserve strength necessary? We shall have to wait and see.

If Weygand can hold not only Paris but his lines along the Marne and Seine rivers it may be the turning point of the war.

If the Germans exhaust themselves in this assault, their position will become decidedly uncomfortable, since Hitler is believed to have thrown into this drive virtually every ounce of strength he possesses.

Weygand Could Maneuver

Even the capture of Paris wouldn't mean success for the German fuehrer, unless in the process he crushed the French armies. Berlin seems to recognize this from a statement this morning by an authorized source who declared that the capture of Paris isn't the primary object but that "the real purpose is to crush our foes' armies completely."

Obviously if Weygand had to give up Paris he could retire further south to new positions and continue the fight—provided he maintained his army intact.

"The Flag Speaks" To Be Shown at Majestic Tonight

The two-reel technicolor film, "The Flag Speaks," will be shown this evening at the Majestic theatre through arrangements by the American Legion. Showing of the film here is particularly timely in view of the community observance being planned in Gettysburg for Flag Day on Friday.

The film depicts how the Stars and Stripes became the first symbol of unity amongst the various states that had sprung up haphazardly. It gave the struggling colonists the very thing they needed to lend a meaning that everyone could grasp to their efforts to throw off the shackles of oppression. No longer were they fighting merely against this or that misdeed of a foreign power. Their effort transcended this. They were fighting to establish a nation that could live in peace and establish for itself a permanent place in the sun.

Standing then, for what it does, the film urges that Americans show proper respect for their emblem of democracy, that they do not use it for such things as tablecloths or desk drapes. It shows the proper methods of hanging and saluting the flag, that outward display of America's heart-felt respect for their symbol of freedom and democracy.

David Miller directed the two-reeler from a script by Robert Lees and Frederic Rinaldo. Robert Warwick, Sara Haden, Claude King, Christian Rub and 400 others compose the cast.

SAYS NAZIS DID NOT KNOW LINER CHANGED COURSE

Berlin, June 12 (AP)—It was a German submarine which stopped the United States liner Washington at dawn Tuesday on its refugee-carrying European voyage, authorized German sources disclosed today.

These informants said that the submarine learned that the liner was on a northern cruise, headed for Ireland.

The German government was said to have been advised that the ship was going to Bordeaux, France, and other ports and that Germany had not been told until later in the day that she would call at Ireland.

An authorized spokesman said today the German government, while informed of the fact that the United States liner Washington was sailing and of the nature of its mission, had not been informed of a change in the ship's course undertaken between 2 p. m. and 6 p. m. Tuesday.

(The liner, carrying 1,020 refugees from the war zones and a crew of 570, was stopped 240 miles northwest of Lisbon, Portugal, early Tuesday as she was steaming toward Galway, Ireland, to pick up additional refugees. The point of its encounter with the submarine was about 145 miles off the northwest coast of Spain.)

It was intimated here that if a German submarine stopped the Washington it came as a result of a change in the ship's course of which the Germans had not been informed.

from his war wounds, Mussolini was back at his old game of anti-government agitation. His Fascist party swelled rapidly and Mussolini was soaring to new heights as a "leader." . . . 250,000 Black Shirts were eager to do his bidding . . . the Italian government was tottering.

Mussolini ordered the "March on Rome" . . . 50,000 Fascists moved to the Italian capital . . . 200,000 others seized other Italian cities. But Mussolini did not demonstrate any courage or bravery in that black-shirt march. He buckled on three automatic pistols and stayed in Milan while his hirelings went to Rome. After Rome fell into their hands, without any resistance from the government, Mussolini, at the request of King Victor Emanuel, went to Rome . . . no, he didn't march . . . he took a comfortable sleeper . . . and there, safe in the arms of his cohorts who took the city for him, formed a cabinet for the King. That was in 1922. He had plenty of opposition but he beat that down with bullets and castor oil.

Then Mussolini became braver. As his hirelings cleaned up those opposed to him the Duce (who once nearly strangled a man for calling him that) had visions of world power.

Little, defenseless Ethiopia was taken, but only after that small army of poorly equipped natives nearly made monkeys out of Mussolini's well trained and well equipped forces. . . . He stuck his nose into the Spanish revolution where he planned to do great things, but an inferior and smaller force of Spaniards disgraced and defeated the Italians and Mussolini had to have help to save his face.

Albania, a little bit of a country on the Adriatic, was next on the list. Mussolini felt sure he could take that country because they didn't have an army or a navy, except a few soldiers and a couple of old boats. So Mussolini signed a pact with the Albanian King and one year later shelled the capital with his big guns and drove the King and the young Queen—mother of only a few days—with her new-born son to flee over the mountains into the haven of a neutral country. That was big stuff for Mussolini and his Black Shirts.

* * *

Now, Mussolini is laughing. Hitler spends seven years preparing for war . . . wipes out a couple of smaller nations . . . tangles with England and France and with France and England in death-grips with the Nazis Mussolini jumps in because he thinks Germany is going to wipe out those two countries and the Duce wants to get in on division of the spoils.

That's bravery and courage, Mr. Mussolini, of the yellowish kind.

History will truthfully record the deeds of the brave, the just and unjust . . . the chivalric and fearless . . . the heroic and the mighty . . . the cowardly and the disgraceful. Your page, Mr. Mussolini, will be as black as the shirt you flaunt . . . it will reek with disgrace, dishonor and betrayal . . . you will cringe with shame . . . and will be abhored by decent mankind . . . forever.

36 Billions Spent To Re-Arm Germany

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor

New York, June 12—War is fantastically costly, yet a nation internationally bankrupt and vastly deficient in natural resources is able to build and launch a war machine of such might and destructiveness as to shake the world.

How does Germany do it, in defiance of traditional economics, in seeming repudiation of all accepted canons of finance?

It was only six years ago that the reich, denuded of gold and foreign balances, and her credit shattered, suspended payments on all foreign debts.

Dr. Schacht, then head of the reichsbank, complained of his country's depending on foreign raw materials, appealed to the world for a "spirit of compromise, patience and good will." Financially and economically, the nation seemed down and out.

Yet within a few months Adolf Hitler was rapidly developing his vast and costly armament program.

Cost 36 Billions to Re-Arm

Last autumn Hitler said he had spent 90 billions of reichmarks to re-arm. The world was incredulous. Since the German currency was unbacked by gold, and had no free world market, one could not say how much that was in dollars, but at the official rate, it would come to 36 billions.

What Germany is currently spending is not known, but the rate of expenditure is enormous.

Any consideration of what can be spent on war, economists explain, must begin by banishing all peacetime standards.

In 1914 economists were almost unanimous that no nation was financially able to wage war for more than a few months. Yet the direct money outlays of the first World war, exclusive of costs of loss of life, destruction of property, depreciation of capital and loss of trade, has been calculated at the astronomical figure of 186 billions of dollars, about seven times the entire amount spent by the United States government from 1789 to 1916.

Consideration of how Germany, a "poor," "have-not," nation, has been able to pay for its breath-taking adventure in conquest, in this era when war rolls on wheels and plunges through the clouds and is immeasurably more expensive than in 1914-18, must go back to the beginning of the nazi regimes.

Government Controls Everything

Hitler found some 30 per cent of German workers unemployed, factories were idle, there was lack of money to import essential materials and food supplies. In this crisis, Germans willingly acquiesced in a system of controls of industry, labor, trade and finance such as had never before been applied in any modern, industrialized nation.

These controls increased until today, if you are a German, the government tells you what you may eat, what you may wear, where you must work, the hours you shall labor, what wages you may receive, what prices you shall pay for the essentials of life.

Borrow Citizens' Savings

If you are a manufacturer, you are told what you shall make, what you will sell it for, and that after you have paid your taxes, profits left must be loaned to your government. If you operate a savings bank or an insurance company, you are told where you must invest the funds of your institution.

Only last month, the British government asked and received similar authoritarian powers. Regimentation is a program of enormous detail, and takes time. Hitler had a six-year start.

Germany is paying not only by levying staggering taxes, and borrowing all the people's savings the government can lay its hands on but by severe sacrifice of the standard of living, and of the creature comforts of her people.

Of food, one may have but one pound of meat a week. Only cabbages and potatoes are reasonably plentiful. You are told exactly what items of clothing you may buy in a year, and the quota per person makes prison life in America seem almost opulent. For instance, women are allowed four pairs of stockings annually.

Thus, economists explain, the whole national effort is geared for war.

But aside from the intensive internal organization of the reich, she has the problem of finding ways to obtain essential materials from abroad. Of three principal industrial materials—coal, iron, and petroleum—Germany is well supplied only with coal. Domestic sources of cotton, wool, copper, rubber and a host of other materials are lacking.

First, say international trade authorities, it must be remembered that Germany imported more than her normal needs of many supplies in the years before the war. Also, early in the nazi regime, all foreign trade was placed under rigid regulation.

Presbyterian Group To Arrange Picnic

Officers and teachers of the Gettysburg Presbyterian Sunday school named a general committee to set the date, decide upon the place and make all arrangements for the annual church and Sunday school picnic. The meeting was held at the home of the general superintendent, E. Donald Scott, Baltimore street. Mr. Scott presided at the meeting with 15 persons present.

The picnic committee includes: Hugh C. McIlhenny, George M. Zerfing, Mrs. Anna Plank, Miss Margaret Larson, G. Kenneth Newbould, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Wolff, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alexander, Professor and Mrs. Herbert Hamme, James R. McConaghie and Donald P. McPherson, Jr., Esq.

MacKenzie Says: Weygand Has "Solid" Line Near Paris

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

When you see the epic stand the French Poilus are making before Paris in the face of terrific odds, you understand how it is that men can cheer while comrades are dying.

This devotion and sacrifice make it possible still to record that the allied position is no more serious than it has been for days.

Indeed, the French high command having decided to withdraw to positions south of the historic Marne river, which flanks the capital to the East, the defense should be considerably easier.

Generalissimo Weygand's strategy apparently contemplates also utilizing the Seine, which forms a flank for Paris to the west, as a complementary defense line, although his present front bulges out to the north of the capital.

First "Solid" Line

This Marne-Seine combination would give him the first "solid" front the French have had since the Germans crashed the allied line up on the Somme and Aisne river early in the offensive. Strategically it is stronger, for the terrain makes it easier of defense.

Whether the Germans will be able to force their way into the beleaguered city depends on how much their stamina has been sapped by the fury of their protracted offensive.

They have the men and materials to turn the trick—but have they the reserve strength necessary? We shall have to wait and see.

If Weygand can hold not only Paris but his lines along the Marne and Seine rivers it may be the turning point of the war.

If the Germans exhaust themselves in this assault, their position will become decidedly uncomfortable, since Hitler is believed to have thrown into this drive virtually every ounce of strength he possesses.

Weygand Could Maneuver

Even the capture of Paris wouldn't mean success for the German fuehrer, unless in the process he crushed the French armies. Berlin seems to recognize this from a statement this morning by an authorized source who declared that the capture of Paris isn't the primary object but that "the real purpose is to crush our foes' armies completely."

Obviously if Weygand had to give up Paris he could retire further south to new positions and continue the fight—provided he maintained his army intact.

"The Flag Speaks" To Be Shown at Majestic Tonight

The two-reel technicolor film, "The Flag Speaks," will be shown this evening at the Majestic theatre through arrangements by the American Legion. Showing of the film here is particularly timely in view of the community observance being planned in Gettysburg for Flag Day on Friday.

The film depicts how the Stars and Stripes became the first symbol of unity amongst the various states that had sprung up haphazardly. It gave the struggling colonists the very thing they needed to lend a meaning that everyone could grasp to their efforts to throw off the shackles of oppression. No longer were they fighting merely against this or that misdeed of a foreign power. Their effort transcended this. They were fighting to establish a nation that could live in peace and establish for itself a permanent place in the sun.

Standing then, for what it does, the film urges that Americans show proper respect for their emblem of democracy, that they do not use it for such things as tablecloths or desk drapes. It shows the proper methods of hanging and saluting the flag, that outward display of America's heart-felt respect for their symbol of freedom and democracy.

David Miller directed the two-reeler from a script by Robert Lees and Frederic Rinaldo. Robert Warwick, Sara Haden, Claude King, Christian Rub and 400 others compose the cast.

SAYS NAZIS DID NOT KNOW LINER CHANGED COURSE

Berlin, June 12 (AP)—It was a German submarine which stopped the United States liner Washington at dawn Tuesday on its refugee-carrying European voyage, authorized German sources disclosed today.

These informants said that the submarine learned that the liner was on a northern cruise, headed for Ireland.

The German government was said to have been advised that the ship was going to Bordeaux, France, and other ports and that Germany had not been told until later in the day that she would call at Ireland.

An authorized spokesman said today the German government, while informed of the fact that the United States liner Washington was sailing and of the nature of its mission, had not been informed of a change in the ship's course undertaken between 2 p. m. and 6 p. m. Tuesday.

(The liner, carrying 1,020 refugees from the war zones and a crew of 570, was stopped 240 miles northwest of Lisbon, Portugal, early Tuesday as she was steaming toward Galway, Ireland, to pick up additional refugees. The point of its encounter with the submarine was about 145 miles off the northwest coast of Spain.)

It was intimated here that if a German submarine stopped the Washington it came as a result of a change in the ship's course of which the Germans had not been informed.

Here and There

News and Comment Gathered at Random

from his war wounds, Mussolini was back at his old game of anti-government agitation. His Fascist party swelled rapidly and Mussolini was soaring to new heights as a "leader." . . . 250,000 Black Shirts were eager to do his bidding . . . the Italian government was tottering.

* * *

Mussolini ordered the "March on Rome" . . . 50,000 Fascists moved to the Italian capital . . . 200,000 others seized other Italian cities. But Mussolini did not demonstrate any courage or bravery in that black-shirt march. He buckled on three automatic pistols and stayed in Milan while his hirelings went to Rome. After Rome fell into their hands, without any resistance from the government, Mussolini, at the request of King Victor Emanuel, went to Rome . . . no, he didn't march . . . he took a comfortable sleeper . . . and there, safe in the arms of his cohorts who took the city for him, formed a cabinet for the King. That was in 1922. He had plenty of opposition but he beat that down with bullets and castor oil.

Then Mussolini became braver. As his hirelings cleaned up those opposed to him the Duce (who once nearly strangled a man for calling him that) had visions of world power.

Little, defenseless Ethiopia was taken, but only after that small army of poorly equipped natives nearly made monkeys out of Mussolini's well trained and well equipped forces. . . . He stuck his nose into the Spanish revolution where he planned to do great things, but an inferior and smaller force of Spaniards disgraced and defeated the Italians and Mussolini had to have help to save his face.

Albania, a little bit of a country on the Adriatic, was next on the list. Mussolini felt sure he could take that country because they didn't have an army or a navy, except a few soldiers and a couple of old boats. So Mussolini signed a pact with the Albanian King and one year later shelled the capital with his big guns and drove the King and the young Queen—mother of only a few days—with her new-born son to flee over the mountains into the haven of a neutral country. That was big stuff for Mussolini and his Black Shirts.

* * *

Now, Mussolini is tougher. Hitler spends seven years preparing for war . . . wipes out a couple of smaller nations . . . tangles with England and France and with France and England in death-grips with the Nazis Mussolini jumps in because he thinks Germany is going to wipe out those two countries and the Duce wants to get in on division of the spoils.

That's bravery and courage, Mr. Mussolini, of the yellowish kind.

History will truthfully record the deeds of the brave, the just and unjust . . . the chivalric and fearless . . . the heroic and the mighty . . . the cowardly and the disgraceful. Your page, Mr. Mussolini, will be as black as the shirt you flaunt . . . it will reek with disgrace, dishonor and betrayal . . . you will cringe with shame . . . and will be abhored by decent mankind . . . forever.

TIGERS ENTER RACE FOR FLAG

(By the Associated Press)

The Detroit Tigers are in the American league's fierce flag fight up to their necks today and show every sign of staying there

So it's time for everybody to admit that the struggle in the junior circuit is a four-way affair just as the equally bitter battle in the National league is at least a three-way race

The Tigers squeezed into second place Tuesday by defeating the New York Yankees 6-1 while the Boston Red Sox disposed of the threatening Cleveland Indians 9-2

The Tigers have been a strong club right along, never worse than third in the American league since the first week of the season Yet they never have won more than four games in a row or been regarded as serious pennant contenders by other than their followers

There were good reasons At the start of the season Charley Gehringer was ailing and the whole infield was shaky Nobody knew how the experiment of Hank Greenberg in the outfield would turn out The pitching wasn't very promising and above everything else the Yankees Red Sox and Indians all were considered better clubs

Tommy Bridges never had his curve breaking any better than Tuesday when he held the Yanks to five hits

The Red Sox defeated the Indians handsomely They made seven hits off Bob Feller in five innings and gave him his fourth defeat Jack Wilson kept seven hits by the Indians scattered and had the help of the big bats of Joe Cronin and Ted Williams each of whom hit home runs

Feller wasn't the only wonder pitcher to fall into a pit Tuesday Bucky Walters who won nine games before he was beaten was pounded upon by the Phillies 4 1 for his second straight setback Walter Boom Boom Beck held the usually rugged Reds to seven hits, two less than the Phils collected

Paul Dean Wins

One of the day's happiest occurrences was a four-hit pitching performance by Paul Dean in accounting for one half of the New York Giants' double triumph over the Chicago Cubs While the Windy City still was talking about brother Dizzy's withdrawal from the major league scene Paul came up with a heart-stirring show for his first National league victory in two years 3 2

His successful start followed close upon a five-hit shutout Bill Lohrman pitched to beat the Cubs 4-0 in the first game The twin killing lifted the Giants to a game and a half behind the Reds

Vernon Kennedy another veteran, landed lightside up as the St Louis Browns again whipped the Washington Senators 5-2

The Chicago White Sox kept Washington from dropping to the cellar by edging out the Philadelphia Athletics 5-4 in a night game Pinch hitter Julius Solters hit his first home run of the year with one on in the ninth to decide the ball game

RIDLEY PARK H. S. BURNED

Ridley Park, Pa, June 12 (AP)—Fire wrecked the Ridley Park high school building early today, causing damage estimated at more than $150,000

Firemen from Ridley Park and 15 Delaware county communities fought the blaze in the two-story brick structure for more than three hours before extinguishing it Five firemen and a policeman were treated at a hospital for slight injuries and at least 36 others became ill from smoke

An adjoining auditorium-gymnasium where the high school graduation exercises are scheduled to be held Monday, was only slightly damaged, but records of the graduating class filed in the main building were destroyed

An hour after Police Sergeant George Smith discovered the fire at 2 a m the roof of the building fell in with a roar Flames shot high into the air and could be seen for several miles distant at the height of the fire

The building occupies about a block in the center of Ridley Park's residential district It was built 24 years ago

In addition to the student records valuable equipment in laboratories 50 typewriters and the school library also were destroyed

Classes for the 600 students of the school ended Monday but they were to return Friday for their report cards

TURKEY CALLS MORE RESERVES

Budapest, June 12 (AP)—Turkey's call of 200 000 additional reserves to the colors was interpreted in Balkan capitals today as indicating that she is preparing to fulfill her pledges to the allies and enter the European war—provided Soviet Russia stays out

Informed sources estimated that Turkey now has approximately 600 000 men under arms and the small nations of southeastern Europe looked anxiously to their own defenses as the war clouds grew blacker

Hungary Rumania and Yugoslavia hope to maintain their neutrality even if Ankara votes for war but the fate of Greece is linked closely with that of Turkey

Intense diplomatic activity was in progress in Ankara and Athens where the government Tuesday stepped up its military preparations by ordering the class of 1934 to report for periodical training '

Diplomatic circles anxiously debated the conflicting interests of Russia, Germany and Italy in the Danubian region would be likely to serve as a stabilizing influence or to hasten possible spread of war to the Balkans

All quarters seemed agreed however that if Josef Stalin indicated to Turkey that her entry into the war would be the signal for Russian intervention in behalf of the Rome-Berlin axis Turkey would have no course but to keep out

There have been some indications that Russia was steering away from the axis but the recent resumption of normal diplomatic relations between Rome and Moscow cast fresh doubt here on Stalin's intentions

New York, June 12 (AP) — Del Baker insists his Tigers are just as much in the American league race as Boston or Cleveland . . . Henry Armstrong, who kayoed Paul Junior in Boston, gives the Maine lad another chance at Portland, June 21 . . . A Chicago museum wants to preserve the skeleton of Maurice (The Angel) Tillett and has asked him for a price . . . Leo Durocher fears those pains in his right side may spell appendicitis. That would be a fine come-off with Pee Wee Reese still on the doubtful list . . . Attention, Mr. Wrigley: Dizzy Dean is telling 'em down in Oklahoma the Reds are his favorites to win the bunting.

Today's guest star—Dick Freeman, Houston Chronicle: "Jimmie Kitts, former Rice coach, has transferred from a dog-eat-dog profession to a man-eat-dog business . . . Jimmie heads a new business which features a hot dog cooked inside a corn pone." . . . Yum, yum.

As recently as last winter Lawson Little was so discouraged with his golf he was seriously thinking of quitting. Now look at him . . . The Brooks think they could get a pitcher from the Yanks—mebbe Oral Hildebrand or Bump Hadley—if Oscar Vitt would agree to waive . . . Only three home runs in four years have been hit in the Albany (Georgia) stadium, a huge sunken garden developed at a cost of 50 grand . . . Mike Jacobs has had his few remaining molars jerked out and is on a liquid diet.

New York Post says today Mike Jacobs will confer with his directors about the war's effect on the Louis-Godoy bout. That's right. Mike's directors are M. S. Jacobs and Michael Strauss Jacobs and the meeting will be held in a telephone booth . . . George Stirnweiss, the North Carolina football star, has been sent to the Yankee farm at Norfolk (Virginia) where they'll try to convert him from a second sacker to a shortstop . . . Jerry Kobrin, first lieutenant to Sports Editor Bill Reedy of the Reading Eagle, is doing the town . . . Rip Valenti of the Boston Garden is flirting with the idea of promoting college basketball a la Ned Irish in New York and Philly.

One minute interview — Ralph Guldahl: "Snead? . . . I don't know what's the matter with the fellow . . . he's got the best swing in the business . . . He's always 30 or 40 yards ahead of most of us and straight down the middle . . . Canterbury was a pitch-and-putt course for him . . . If he couldn't win there I don't know where he'll win the Open."

Bleeding heart dept.—This is the sad story of golfer Dave Funk of Michigan . . . The poor guy missed an ace by 18 inches on the fourth hole, then went on to the 11th and took—you heard us—21 strokes.

TIGERS ENTER RACE FOR FLAG

(By the Associated Press)

The Detroit Tigers are in the American league's fierce flag fight up to their necks today and show every sign of staying there.

So it's time for everybody to admit that the struggle in the junior circuit is a four-way affair just as the equally bitter battle in the National league is at least a three-way race.

The Tigers squeezed into second place Tuesday by defeating the New York Yankees 6-1 while the Boston Red Sox disposed of the threatening Cleveland Indians 9-2.

The Tigers have been a strong club right along, never worse than third in the American league since the first week of the season. Yet they never have won more than four games in a row or been regarded as serious pennant contenders by other than their followers.

There were good reasons. At the start of the season Charley Gehringer was ailing and the whole infield was shaky. Nobody knew how the experiment of Hank Greenberg in the outfield would turn out. The pitching wasn't very promising and above everything else the Yankees, Red Sox and Indians all were considered better clubs.

Tommy Bridges never had his curve breaking any better than Tuesday when he held the Yanks to five hits.

The Red Sox defeated the Indians handsomely. They made seven hits off Bob Feller in five innings and gave him his fourth defeat. Jack Wilson kept seven hits by the Indians scattered and had the help of the big bats of Joe Cronin and Ted Williams, each of whom hit home runs.

Feller wasn't the only wonder pitcher to fall into a pit Tuesday. Bucky Walters, who won nine games before he was beaten, was pounded upon by the Phillies 4-1 for his second straight setback. Walter "Boom Boom" Beck held the usually rugged Reds to seven hits, two less than the Phils collected.

Paul Dean Wins

One of the day's happiest occurrences was a four-hit pitching performance by Paul Dean in accounting for one half of the New York Giants' double triumph over the Chicago Cubs. While the Windy City still was talking about brother Dizzy's withdrawal from the major league scene, Paul came up with a heart-stirring show for his first National league victory in two years, 3-2.

His successful start followed close upon a five-hit shutout Bill Lohrman pitched to beat the Cubs 4-0 in the first game. The twin killing lifted the Giants to a game and a half behind the Reds.

Vernon Kennedy, another veteran, landed rightside up as the St. Louis Browns again whipped the Washington Senators 5-2.

The Chicago White Sox kept Washington from dropping to the cellar by edging out the Philadelphia Athletics 5-4 in a night game. Pinch hitter Julius Solters hit his first home run of the year with one on in the ninth to decide the ball game.

RIDLEY PARK H. S. BURNED

Ridley Park, Pa., June 12 (AP)—Fire wrecked the Ridley Park high school building early today, causing damage estimated at more than $150,000.

Firemen from Ridley Park and 15 Delaware county communities fought the blaze in the two-story brick structure for more than three hours before extinguishing it. Five firemen and a policeman were treated at a hospital for slight injuries and at least 36 others became ill from smoke.

An adjoining auditorium-gymnasium, where the high school graduation exercises are scheduled to be held Monday, was only slightly damaged, but records of the graduating class filed in the main building were destroyed.

An hour after Police Sergeant George Smith discovered the fire at 2 a. m., the roof of the building fell in with a roar. Flames shot high into the air and could be seen for several miles distant at the height of the fire.

The building occupies about a block in the center of Ridley Park's residential district. It was built 24 years ago.

In addition to the student records, valuable equipment in laboratories, 50 typewriters and the school library also were destroyed.

Classes for the 600 students of the school ended Monday, but they were to return Friday for their report cards.

TURKEY CALLS MORE RESERVES

Budapest, June 12 (AP)—Turkey's call of 200,000 additional reserves to the colors was interpreted in Balkan capitals today as indicating that she is perparing to fulfill her pledges to the allies and enter the European war—provided Soviet Russia stays out.

Informed sources estimated that Turkey now has approximately 600,000 men under arms, and the small nations of southeastern Europe looked anxiously to their own defenses as the war clouds grew blacker.

Hungary, Rumania and Yugoslavia hope to maintain their neutrality even if Ankara votes for war, but the fate of Greece is linked closely with that of Turkey.

Intense diplomatic activity was in progress in Ankara and Athens, where the government Tuesday stepped up its military preparations by ordering the class of 1934 to report for "periodical training."

Diplomatic circles anxiously debated the conflicting interests of Russia, Germany and Italy in the Danubian region would be likely to serve as a stabilizing influence or to hasten possible spread of war to the Balkans.

All quarters seemed agreed, however, that if Josef Stalin indicated to Turkey that her entry into the war would be the signal for Russian intervention in behalf of the Rome-Berlin axis, Turkey would have no course but to keep out.

There have been some indications that Russia was steering away from the axis, but the recent resumption of normal diplomatic relations between Rome and Moscow cast fresh doubt here on Stalin's intentions.

HUNGRY MAYBE

DuBois, Pa., June 12 (AP)—Cottage Hill vigilantes formed to oust "peepers" from their neighborhood. Firing of three shots brought them running to the residence of C. F. Kerstetter but evidence convinced them the prowler had been peeping in cellars, kitchens and ice boxes instead of windows.

SURPRISED HIMSELF

Washington, Pa., June 12 (AP)—Glenn A. Conklin decided this year to try his hand at growing strawberries—and surprised himself. He is displaying berries three to four inches in diameter, some of the largest ever seen in this section.

JUST IN CASE

Pottstown, Pa., June 12 (AP)—Just in case anything should happen that might require their services, the 81 members of the Pine Forge Sportsmen's club have oiled their guns and started shooting practice as a "home guard."

YOUNG HERO

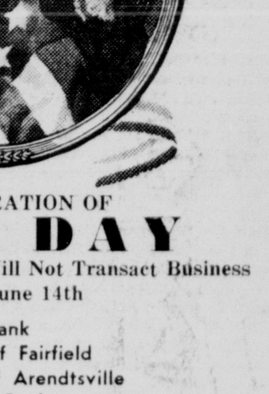

York Haven, Pa., June 12 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old John Andrews saw his friend, John Jennings, Jr., 11, about to go under for the third time while swimming in Conewago creek at the "horse hole." He dove in fully clothed and pulled the younger boy out.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

GOOD WILL

GOOD Will is intangible. You can't see it. You can't weigh, or measure it. But it is something very big, very real, and very important. It is something like character, which has to be sensed, and then felt.

The Good Will of a firm may only rest in a name—a trademark, or a group of men, whose ideals of business have never been lowered.

The fact remains, however, that nothing is more important to a business, or to the individual, than Good Will. It is as valuable an asset as a big balance in the bank—often of greater value!

Millions in money have often been paid, merely for the Good Will of an enterprise. But, in such a case, that Good Will's value begins to die the moment when what it stood for is shoved aside. Good Will has to have backing.

When you say that you wish some one to have your Good Will, or that you would like to have his, it means that you wish that one to have confidence in you, and that you place confidence in him. Thus behind a mere Trade-name, or a firm, must have been erected a structure of confidence. "Sterling" has but one meaning. Its Good Will is genuineness.

Creators of Good Will are the fore-runners of safe and honest progress. "Good Will toward all men" was the message of 2,000 years ago that came out of a small country in the East—now unhappily in the throes of fear. Good Will, however, is something born into the heart of man—something of an undefeatable character.

Those who spread the doctrine of Good Will are the ancestors of Tomorrow's "new birth of Freedom" which "shall not perish from the earth."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Beauty Spots."

UNCHANGEABLE

These things she never expects to see:
A decent sort of tie on me.
A high silk hat or a morning coat
Or that neat effect on which women dote.
At life's long last she has fixed her mind
On the fact that I'm the unchangeable kind.

These things she never expects to do:
Alter my masculine point of view.
Get me to hang up my coat and hat,
To wipe my feet on the front door mat.
At life's long last she has come to see
That as I have been I am bound to be.

She knows the end of her days she'll find
The trail of trouble I leave behind,
That she to the end of her days will be

Will always be found on the bedroom floor.

Oh the years are many; the years are long,
But the hopes have weakened that once were strong.
She has given up and has ceased to try
For that high silk hat and that change of tie.
Now as patient and gracious as she can be
She's resigned to picking up after me.

"MATHEMATICS AND THE IMAGINATION," by Edward Kasner and James Newman (Simon & Schuster: $2.75).

"HERE, within the reach of every intelligent person, is an adventure into a fabulous world that makes Alice's Wonderland seem commonplace."

This is a statement from the enthusiastic jacket blurb of a book called "Mathematics and the Imagination," by Edward Kasner and James Newman. The book is an attempt to crash the market already earmarked for Hogben and a few others, and probably a worthy one. It is a nicely made book, printed clearly, and edited with a certain fastidiousness. It has 380 pages, an elaborate table of contents, and a brief introduction. The diagrams and kindred devices are by Rufus Isaacs. And its publisher is a singularly energetic firm, one which is noted for picking financially profitable books and plugging them to the limit.

Yet the whole venture is launched on a proposition which Messrs Kasner and Newman could not defend logically, although their book is an exposition of logic in its numerous mathematical forms.

This is because, although there are all sorts of visual aids for the congenitally dumb, it simply is not true that this adventure is open to all intelligent persons. The writer does not pretend to be intelligent, and anyway he has a positive horror of mathematics and cannot even extract the square root of a number. But he has tried the book on two other people, each of whom is considered by a wide circle to be more intelligent than the average, and these, too, find its beauties somewhat clouded.

Yet parts of it are fun, even for a dummy. For example, the way Dr. Kasner's child named the largest finite number to date (a googolplex) seems fairly amusing. The discussion of dice throwing and the probabilities of penny-tossing have their points. The problem of the seven Konigsberg bridges, presented in the section called "Rubber-sheet Geometry," is also intelligible.

But there are two fundamental difficulties for this, and perhaps some other, reader. One is that like all popularizers, Messrs. Kasner and Newman postulate most of their work on a degree of knowledge beyond that of the average non-mathematical reader. The other is that they presume too much interest on his part. Come to think of it, there is a third difficulty — too elastic to be handled so cavalierly.

Chapter 27

'Serves Us Right'

Johnny and Rose sought Jan out, their faces disturbed and annoyed.

"Where's Derek?", Johnny asked.

"Gone," said Jan. "Gone for good."

Rose demanded, her eyes hard and greedy and angry, "Are you absolutely positive, Jan, you never at any time had the slightest idea of Derek's real identity?"

"He never told me and I didn't bother him to find out. Why?"

"Why? Why?" Rose wailed. "You tell her, Johnny."

"Well, it's like this," he started, seeming vastly irritated with himself, with Rose and with Jan. "I found out the girl we saw him talking to at the Club was an eastern socialite by the name of Lenore Page. I managed an introduction to some people who knew her and got the low down. It seems this Derek of yours is really Derek Knowles. He's the only son of Gregory Knowles, one of the ten richest financiers in the country, and he's got millions of his own besides. He was all set to marry Lenore Page, then suddenly changed his mind. He disappeared from New York, turned up out here at Malibu Beach, disappeared again, leaving word he'd gone over to watch the map of China change!"

"Good heavens!" ranted Rose, "to think I actually lived in the same house for weeks with an honest-to-goodness millionaire and didn't know it. Oh, I knew there was plenty of phoney about him, but I thought he was a depression pauper—strictly no-account. I'll never get over this! Never!"

"And I," Johnny agonized, "argued and quarreled with him all the time. Why, if I'd treated him right he could have backed me in a swanky night club with a big swing band of my own!"

Jan looked at their vexed, disappointed faces. She giggled. Laughter started deep inside of her and welled out, peal after peal, helpless laughter, genuine laughter. She held her sides and rocked with it, fumbled for a handkerchief and dabbed at her streaming eyes.

Johnny glowered, but Rose caught the infection of Jan's mirth and smiled widely. "Serves us right," she declared. "Truth is, I never had a chance with him, anyhow, so why cry?"

"Just the same," Johnny snapped, "I can't see why it's so darned funny to Jan. She had to wait on him and feed him and she's always stewing around about being broke."

"I'll tell you," she said, subsiding. "In the first place your reaction was terribly silly and most enlightening. In the second place Derek asked me only a few days ago if I'd like to have a million dollars and I told him to stop teasing me about impossible things!"

"That is not laughable," Johnny asserted. "After all, he certainly owes you plenty for all you did for him. Maybe he would have given you a million."

"I wouldn't take it if he did. And he doesn't owe me anything, Johnny. He worked and paid his board. I let him stay here because I liked him and wanted him here. Maybe you'll think twice before you highhat my next roomer!" She started to giggle again and Johnny fled.

'She Has What It Takes'

Rose placed her hands on Jan's shoulders and shook her gently. "Stop it, Jan. I suspect a lot of this is hysteria," she hazarded shrewdly. "You're in love with the man, aren't you?"

The younger girl bit her lip. "I thought I was, I guess, but no more. My being in love with a millionaire is as ridiculous as—as his being in love with me."

"That's good," Rose said briskly, "because that Lenore Page is still after him from what I understand, and she certainly has what it takes!"

Jan thought miserably, "She must be the one he told me about—the one who hurt him so dreadfully. Maybe they made up—maybe she went to New York with him." And abruptly all laughter, hysterical or otherwise, left her and she felt wretched because he had gone and more wretched because she'd been such a simpleton as to fall in love with him.

The next day, dismantling Derek's tent on the roof, she found a folded newspaper photo under the mattress of the army cot. A picture of a slim, beautiful girl in luxurious furs alighting from an airplane. It was captioned:

Miss Lenore Page, of Boston, New York and Palm Beach, soon to wed Derek Carter Knowles of New York City in what promises to be one of the most colorful and socially important weddings of the season.

Jan knew, when she tore the picture to bits and flung the pieces over the parapet, that her artist's eye would never forget one curve or line of that exquisite face. Yet, her memory thrust at her, this is the woman responsible for Derek's trying to destroy himself.

"Surely he won't give her another chance to hurt him?" she thought. "He must have learned something during all these months. Oh, I've got to stop thinking about him, worrying about him. I'll never see him again. I won't think any more, I won't."

During the next few days she endured a fine torture which became increasingly unbearable. She would wake in the morning anticipating breakfast with him before she remembered he had gone; she would walk on the beach and turn to stare if a tall man appeared in the crowd. Neptune would go at night to the trap door and cry as if he mourned, too. She caught herself listening at odd moments for the sound of his step on the walk, on the stairway; for his tuneless whistle. She missed his mocking smile, his teasing deep voice, the way he turned his head, the look of his face when violence and rebellion stirred him to denunciation.

The fifteenth day of June school let out for the summer months and Norma unwillingly turned to packing her clothes. "I really don't want to go home," she told Jan. "I don't fit in any more. They make me feel as if I ought to have a home of my own and a husband. Actually, to them, I'm rapidly becoming an old maid schoolteacher!"

"Then don't go home," Jan said quickly, a plan taking decisive shape in her small head. "I—I want to go away for awhile, Norma. I think I almost have to go away or give way. You stay here and care for the house and for Lance and I'll go in town for a few weeks and try to get work of some kind. Of course, if I can't get a job I'll have to come back. But I'll get one—I'll have to."

"But do you think I can manage all right?" Norma asked doubtfully, yet hopefully. "Won't Lance object? And what of Rose and Johnny?"

"Well, what of them?" Jan inquired, aware of sudden unreasoning irritability. "They only sleep here. As for Lance, I'll try to make him understand and if he doesn't—well, I'll just have to go anyway. Will you do this for me, Norma?"

"I'd love it." Enthusiasm warmed her voice. "I can cook for Lance and do things for him. He's better about her, don't you think?"

"Definitely. He informed me yesterday he'd never seen a woman so crazy for money. Oh, darling, if you do this you'll save my life, or at least my mind, what there is left of it! I'll go talk to Lance right away. And Norma," Jan clasped the other girl's hands affectionately, "will you act upon some terribly well-meant advice?"

"What is it? I'll try."

Jan narrowed her eyes critically at Norma's straight brown hair, parted in the middle and coiled in a heavy severe knot on the nape of her neck, at the dark-rimmed glasses which held her lovely eyes, at the sweet, colorless face which never bore a hint of makeup, at the crisp white shortwaist and sensible tweed skirt and low-heeled walking shoes.

"Try looking frivolous, darling," Jan advised. "Today! There's a good beauty shop around the corner. Let them cut your hair and give you a permanent wave. Then have a facial and buy a few cosmetics and use a little rouge and lipstick and don't wear your glasses when you aren't reading or knitting. You don't have to, do you? You can see fairly well without them? I thought so," she continued when Norma nodded doubtfully. "Then Norma, pack away your school teacher clothes and buy a couple of gaudy beach suits and foolish, floppy sandals and a fluffy ruffly housedress. And, last of all, don't behave like a docile mouse around Lance! Think you can do all this? It might be well worth it."

A wistful smile parted Norma's lips. "Go frivolous! Oh, Jan, it sounds marvelous! I'll probably resemble a circus clown, but I'll chance it, if you think I should."

"Right now," Jan insisted. "While I'm talking to Lance you trot yourself to the beauty parlor. A woman's entitled to use every trick up her sleeve to get her man!" She wished, privately, that she herself had used a few more tricks while she had Derek under her roof, or should she say, on her roof? Probably been a waste of good energy, though, for he certainly didn't appear affected with her heart palpitation when she was near. And she had been an exacting taskmaster, too exacting, perhaps. "I don't care," she reflected with a burst of genuine unselfish love, "if he goes ahead with his music. If he can compose one thing of lasting beauty, a cracked foolish heart in Sea Tide is negligible."

BOMBS KILL FOUR IN SWITZERLAND

Geneva, June 12 (AP)—The Swiss counted four dead, including two women, and many injured today in bombings of cities and villages by foreign planes. The identity of the bombers was not known.

At least 18 persons were hospitalized with serious wounds in Geneva, where five bombs were dropped in a residential suburban district, killing two persons.

Five bombs were dropped on a railroad station and a nearby hotel in Renens, North of Lausanne. A woman in a wheel chair was killed, her husband's foot was torn off, and a man, asleep in bed in the hotel, was fatally injured.

Swiss expressed an unofficial belief the plane that raided the Geneva suburb was Italian, but a communique some hours later did not state its nationality.

The plane, roaring over the towering Saleve cliff just across the border in France early today, moved over Swiss territory as it dropped its cargo in the Champel-Carouge district.

Sirens awakened Geneva residents and sent them scurrying for cellars. French searchlights swept the sky and anti-aircraft gunners fired. Swiss guns also fired.

The plane's bombs landed with terrific explosions, smashing at least one residence and leaving craters in several streets.

While all Switzerland moved to strengthen both defense and neutrality, the Geneva state council Tuesday banned public meetings and warned foreigners and Swiss to "abstain scrupulously from any discussion susceptible of disturbing the peace or creating incidents," under penalty of arrest.

The federal government published a decree authorizing local authorities to compel property owners to build air raid shelters.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

GOOD WILL

GOOD Will is intangible. You can't see it. You can't weigh, or measure it. But it is something very big, very real, and very important. It is something like character, which has to be sensed, and then felt.

The Good Will of a firm may only rest in a name—a trademark, or a group of men, whose ideals of business have never been lowered.

The fact remains, however, that nothing is more important to a business, or to the individual, than Good Will. It is as valuable an asset as a big balance in the bank—often of greater value!

Millions in money have often been paid merely for the Good Will of an enterprise. But, in such a case, that Good Will's value begins to die the moment when what it stood for is shoved aside. Good Will has to have backing.

When you say that you wish some one to have your Good Will, or that you would like to have his, it means that you wish that one to have confidence in you, and that you place confidence in him. Thus behind a mere Trade-name, or a firm, must have been erected a structure of confidence. "Sterling" has but one meaning. Its Good Will is genuineness.

Creators of Good Will are the fore-runners of safe and honest progress. "Good Will toward all men" was the message of 2,000 years ago that came out of a small country in the East—now unhappily in the throes of fear. Good Will, however, is something born into the heart of man—something of an undefeatable character.

Those who spread the doctrine of Good Will are the ancestors of Tomorrow's "new birth of Freedom" which "shall not perish from the earth."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Beauty Spots."

These things she never expects to see:
A decent sort of tie on me.
A high silk hat or a morning coat
Or that neat effect on which women dote.
At life's long last she has fixed her mind
On the fact that I'm the unchangeable kind.

These things she never expects to do:
Alter my masculine point of view.
Get me to hang up my coat and hat,
To wipe my feet on the front door mat.
At life's long last she has come to see
That as I have been I am bound to be.

She knows the end of her days she'll find

The next day, dismantling Derek's tent on the roof, she found a folded newspaper photo under the mattress of the army cot. A picture of a slim, beautiful girl in luxurious furs alighting from an airplane. It was captioned:

Miss Lenore Page, of Boston, New York and Palm Beach, soon to wed Derek Carter Knowles of New York City in what promises to be one of the most colorful and socially important weddings of the season.

Jan knew, when she tore the picture to bits and flung the pieces over the parapet, that her artist's eye would never forget one curve or line of that exquisite face. Yet, her memory thrust at her, this is the woman responsible for Derek's trying to destroy himself.

"Surely he won't give her another chance to hurt him?" she thought. "He must have learned something during all these months. Oh, I've got to stop thinking about him, worrying about him. I'll never see him again. I won't think any more, I won't."

During the next few days she endured a fine torture which became increasingly unbearable. She would wake in the morning anticipating breakfast with him before she remembered he had gone; she would walk on the beach and turn to stare if a tall man appeared in the crowd. Neptune would go at night to the trap door and cry as if he mourned, too. She caught herself listening at odd moments for the sound of his step on the walk, on the stairway; for his tuneless whistle. She missed his mocking smile, his teasing deep voice, the way he turned his head, the look of his face when violence and rebellion stirred him to denunciation.

The fifteenth day of June school let out for the summer months and Norma unwillingly turned to packing her clothes. "I really don't want to go home," she told Jan. "I don't fit in any more. They make me feel as if I ought to have a home of my own and a husband. Actually, to them, I'm rapidly becoming an old maid schoolteacher!"

"Then don't go home," Jan said quickly, a plan taking decisive shape in her small head. "I—I want to go away for awhile, Norma. I think I almost have to go away or give way. You stay here and care for the house and for Lance and I'll go in town for a few weeks and try to get work of some kind. Of course, if I can't get a job I'll have to come back. But I'll get one—I'll have to."

"But do you think I can manage all right?" Norma asked doubtfully, yet hopefully. "Won't Lance object? And what of Rose and Johnny?"

"Well, what of them?" Jan inquired, aware of sudden unreasoning irritability. "They only sleep here. As for Lance, I'll try to make him understand and if he doesn't—well, I'll just have to go anyway. Will you do this for me, Norma?"

"I'd love it." Enthusiasm warmed her voice. "I can cook for Lance and do things for him. He's better about her, don't you think?"

"Definitely. He informed me yesterday he'd never seen a woman so crazy for money. Oh, darling, if you do this you'll save my life, or at least my mind, what there is left of it! I'll go talk to Lance right away. And Norma," Jan clasped the other girl's hands affectionately, "will you act upon some terribly well-meant advice?"

"What is it? I'll try."

Jan narrowed her eyes critically at Norma's straight brown hair, parted in the middle and coiled in a heavy severe knot on the nape of her neck, at the dark-rimmed glasses which held her lovely eyes, at the sweet, colorless face which never bore a hint of makeup, at the crisp white shortwaist and sensible tweed skirt and low-heeled walking shoes.

"Try looking frivolous, darling," Jan advised. Today! There's a good beauty shop around the corner. Let them cut your hair and give you a permanent wave. Then have a facial and buy a few cosmetics and use a little rouge and lipstick and don't wear your glasses when you aren't reading or knitting. You don't have to, do you? You can see fairly well without them? I thought so," she continued when Norma nodded doubtfully. "Then Norma, pack away your school teacher clothes and buy a couple of gaudy beach suits and foolish, floppy sandals and a fluffy ruffly housedress. And, last of all, don't behave like a docile mouse around Lance! Think you can do all this? It might be well worth it."

A wistful smile parted Norma's lips. "Go frivolous! Oh, Jan, it sounds marvelous! I'll probably resemble a circus clown, but I'll chance it, if you think I should."

"Right now," Jan insisted. "While I'm talking to Lance you trot yourself to the beauty parlor. A woman's entitled to use every trick up her sleeve to get her man!" She wished, privately, that she herself had used a few more tricks while she had Derek under her roof, or should she say, on her roof? Probably been a waste of good energy, though, for he certainly didn't appear affected with her heart palpitation when she was near. And she had been an exacting taskmaster, too exacting, perhaps. "I don't care," she reflected with a burst of genuine unselfish love, "if he goes ahead with his music. If he can compose one thing of lasting beauty, a cracked foolish heart in Sea Tide is negligible."

BOMBS KILL FOUR IN SWITZERLAND

Geneva, June 12 (AP)—The Swiss counted four dead, including two women, and many injured today in bombings of cities and villages by foreign plains. The identity of the bombers was not known.

At least 18 persons were hospitalized with serious wounds in Geneva, where five bombs were dropped in a residential suburban district, killing two persons.

Five bombs were dropped on a railroad station and a nearby hotel in Renens, North of Lausanne. A woman in a wheel chair was killed, her husband's foot was torn off, and a man, asleep in bed in the hotel, was fatally injured.

Swiss expressed an unofficial belief the plane that raided the Geneva suburb was Italian, but a communique some hours later did not state its nationality.

The plane, roaring over the towering Saleve cliff just across the border in France early today, moved over Swiss territory as it dropped its cargo in the Champel-Carouge district.

Sirens awakened Geneva residents and sent them scurrying for cellars. French searchlights swept the sky and anti-aircraft gunners fired. Swiss guns also fired.

The plane's bombs landed with terrific explosions, smashing at least one residence and leaving craters in several streets.

While all Switzerland moved to strengthen both defense and neutrality, the Geneva state council Tuesday banned public meetings and warned foreigners and Swiss to "abstain scrupulously from any discussion susceptible of disturbing the peace or creating incidents," under penalty of arrest.

The federal government published a decree authorizing local authorities to compel property owners to build air raid shelters.

The director of the Kansas Forestry, Fish and Game Commission estimates that cats kill more quail than all the hunters of Kansas.

Truckers Will Discuss Defense

Conneaut Lake, Pa., June 12 (AP)—Pennsylvania truckers will come here tomorrow to talk about their role in national defense.

The task of integrating its business in any plan evolved by the federal government will be the underlying theme of the three-day meeting of the State Motor Truck association.

Nine speakers, including Lieutenant Governor Samuel S. Lewis and L. J. Taber, of Washington, master of the National Grange, are listed.

General Chairman Harry L. Gormley, of New Castle, pointed out that highway transportation is a "vital item in a well-balanced defense program."

More than a dozen conferences on highway safety will be held during the meeting, with the second annual safe truck driver contest scheduled for Saturday.

Refugees Replace Tourists in Paris With Battle Near

Paris June 12 (AP)— Gay Paree was a half empty shell today quiet itself as the sound of battle reached its streets

Instead of the fashionable tourists and other customers usually arriving at this time of year to patronize world famed dressmakers and milliners refugees were arriving in droves from battle-torn northern France

The dressmakers themselves had packed up and left The government was gone and the newspapers were gone Subway trains were running but in restricted numbers Taxis were rare A few food shops were open

Automobiles were streaming out of the capital packed with civilians Others wishing to leave hoped for restoration of train service Poorer people walked

Electricity water and gas were still available but not a light burned in the streets at night

Platforms of the Gare St Lazare where boat trains from de luxe liners usually are unloading aristocratic passengers at this time of year were crowded today with bedraggled groups of refugees in flight from German-invaded Normandy

Hot hungry and thirsty in the June heat they waited for transportation to points still farther from the battle which followed them

A woman with her six children walked 20 miles from Compiegne to take a train at a station which she found blown up when she got there No trains were running but she succeeded in getting a lift by automobile to Paris

It was estimated several thousand Americans still remained in Paris despite repeated warnings by the embassy to get out Among those remaining was United States Ambassador William C Bullitt although part of his staff went with the government to Tours

Many of the fashionable refugees from Paris went to Biarritz and with them were many of the famed dressmaker and millinery establishments practically all of which closed their Paris salons

SPEED EFFORTS TO SEND GUNS TO ALLIED ARMY

Washington June 12 (AP)— Warmly endorsing an organized stop Hitler now movement President Roosevelt worked Tuesday to rush all possible material help to the allies while congress continued its rapid-fire action on the national defense program now grown to $5 021 619 622

The Chief Executive announced as to a press conference that the nations lists of military supplies were being combed to see what might be spared for the beleaguered French and British At the same time the senate by a 68 to 17 vote approved legislation to permit the government to dispose of surplus World war guns in a way which will make them available to the Allied armies

Reporters attending Mr Roosevelt's press conference noticed lying on his desk the full page advertisement which was inserted in many newspapers by the Committee to defend America by aiding the allies It bore a big black streamer Stop Hitler Now!

We can help—if we will act now! was one of its statements we can help by sending planes guns munitions food We can help to end the fear that American boys will fight and die in another Flanders closer to home

Asks for Comment

A reporter asked the President for comment on the advertisement He replied that he had not paid much attention to it until he had learned it had been written by Robert S Sherwood dramatist author of Abe Lincoln in Illinois and the current play on Finland There Shall be No Night

Without meaning Mr Roosevelt said to endorse each phrase contained in the advertisement he thought it was a mighty good thing a great piece of work educational to the people of this country It was well he said that William Allen White the chairman of the committee was placing such things before the people of the country

Paris, June 12 (AP)—"Gay Paree" was a half-empty shell today, quiet itself as the sound of battle reached its streets.

Instead of the fashionable tourists and other customers usually arriving at this time of year to patronize world-famed dressmakers and milliners, refugees were arriving in droves from battle-torn northern France.

The dressmakers themselves had packed up and left. The government was gone and the newspapers were gone. Subway trains were running, but in restricted numbers. Taxis were rare. A few food shops were open.

Automobiles were streaming out of the capital packed with civilians. Others wishing to leave hoped for restoration of train service. Poorer people walked.

Electricity, water and gas were still available, but not a light burned in the streets at night.

Platforms of the Gare St. Lazare, where boat trains from de luxe liners usually are unloading aristocratic passengers at this time of year, were crowded today with bedraggled groups of refugees in flight from German-invaded Normandy.

Hot, hungry and thirsty in the June heat, they waited for transportation to points still farther from the battle which followed them.

A woman with her six children walked 20 miles from Compiegne to take a train at a station which she found blown up when she got there. No trains were running, but she succeeded in getting a lift by automobile to Paris.

It was estimated several thousand Americans still remained in Paris despite repeated warnings by the embassy to get out. Among those remaining was United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt, although part of his staff went with the government to Tours.

Many of the fashionable refugees from Paris went to Biarritz, and with them were many of the famed dressmaker and milinery establishments, practically all of which closed their Paris salons.

Schiaparelli, Molyneux, Lanvin, Paquin and Hein are closing here and opening at Biarritz.

Odd Fellows Pick Conneaut Lake Park For '41 Convention

Williamsport, June 12 (AP)—Pennsylvania Odd Fellows here selected Conneaut Lake Park, in Crawford county, as the site for their convention next year, and filed away Philadelphia's invitation to go there in 1942.

Henry E. Robinson, of Pittsburgh, past grand master Russell K. Patterson, of Harrisburg, department commander of the patriarchs militant, and Ben L. Jenkins, of Wilkes-Barre, present grand master, were nominated to fill the vacancy created by the death in April of Clifford W. Fenton, of New Castle, representative-elect. A special election will be held tomorrow.

Jenkins reported the Pennsylvania organization spent $650,000 during the past year for relief of members during illness, burial of their dead, education and care of orphans, maintenance of widowed families, and support of homes for aged members.

He reported membership in Pennsylvania exceeds 92,500 men, with 25,300 women in the Rebekah assembly.

SPEED EFFORTS TO SEND GUNS TO ALLIED ARMY

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Warmly endorsing an organized "stop Hitler now" movement, President Roosevelt worked Tuesday to rush all possible material help to the allies, while congress continued its rapid-fire action on the national defense program, now grown to $5,021,619,622.

The Chief Executive announced as to a press conference that the nation's lists of military supplies were being combed to see what might be spared for the beleaguered French and British. At the same time, the senate, by a 68 to 17 vote, approved legislation to permit the government to dispose of surplus World war guns in a way which will make them available to the Allied armies.

Reporters attending Mr. Roosevelt's press conference noticed lying on his desk the full-page advertisement which was inserted in many newspapers by the "Committee to defend America by aiding the allies." It bore a big black streamer: "Stop Hitler Now!"

"We can help—if we will act now!" was one of its statements, "we can help by sending planes, guns, munitions, food. We can help to end the fear that American boys will fight and die in another Flanders, closer to home."

Asks for Comment

A reporter asked the President for comment on the advertisement. He replied that he had not paid much attention to it until he had learned it had been written by Robert S. Sherwood, dramatist, author of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," and the current play on Finland, "There Shall be No Night."

Without meaning, Mr. Roosevelt said, to endorse each phrase contained in the advertisement, he thought it was a mighty good thing, a great piece of work, educational to the people of this country. It was well, he said, that William Allen White, the chairman of the committee, was placing such things before the people of the country.

FLASHES FROM THE WAR ZONES

Jerusalem, June 12 (AP)—Hundreds of Italians have been interned in concentration camps and hundreds of others suspected of Italian sympathies remained under surveillance today as police put an end almost simultaneously to all Italian activity in the holy land.

London, June 12 (AP)—The arrival in England several days ago of approximately 1,000 women and children from Malta and Gibraltar was disclosed today. One of the group said that no women remained at either of these British Mediterranean possessions, placed in the conflict area by Italy's entry into the war. The group included about 400 wives of sailors and soldiers.

London, June 12 (AP)—The Polish submarine Orzel has been lost, it was announced by the British admiralty today. The Orzel, an 1,100-ton craft launched January 15, 1938, escaped internment at Talinn, Estonia, last September 18 by sailing suddenly without authorization. Shore batteries fired upon her without success. The Orzel had gone to Estonia as the German armies occupied Polish ports. On April 19 the British admiralty said that the Orzel had sunk the German transport Rio de Janeiro on April 8, sending 300 German troops to their deaths.

Athens, June 12 (AP)—The 2,947-ton Greek steamer Zinavia struck a mine today and sank near the island of Pantelleria, between Sicily and Tunisia. Two of the crew of 30 are missing. The ship was carrying coal from England for the Greek state railway.

London, June 12 (AP)—R. A. Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, announced today that Thailand (Siam) had signed separate non-aggression pacts with Britain, France and Japan.

Chungking, June 12 (AP)—More than 100 Japanese planes, attacking in waves for 15 minutes, started fires this afternoon in the center of this provisional Chinese capitol. Heavy casualties are feared.

Pretoria, South Africa, June 12 (AP)—The first South African war communique said today: "South African air force heavy bombers Tuesday attacked military objectives in Abyssinia (Ethiopia). Extensive damage to buildings, personnel, roads and equipment was done." Abyssinia is the Italian-held African kingdom of the former Emperor Haile Selassie, conquered by the Italians in 1936.

Tours, France, June 12 (AP)—Italian troops blew up a bridge at Vinti Mille on the French border in the Alps today after completing the mobilization of 60 to 70 divisions, a military commentator reported.

Sydney, Australia, June 12 (AP)—Archie Cameron, minister of the navy, announced today the Italian liner Romolo, carrying passengers and a valuable cargo, had been set on fire by its crew in mid-Pacific when it was intercepted by a warship. The Romolo left Brisbane, Australia, on June 5. It carried 5,000 bales of wool. The navy minister's announcement said the crew took to boats after setting the ship ablaze. No further details were known.

NOT PRIVATE CARS

Philadelphia (AP)—Superintendent of police Sutton has directed that police radio patrol cars in Philadelphia must keep radio patrolling and shouldn't be chased around on personal errands for commanding officers.

The order, he said, was prompted by a report that crews of several districts were doing chores for their commanders.

COULDN'T AVOID IT

Coatesville, Pa., June 12 (AP)—Lightning had Gormon Norton, 44, singled out. One bolt struck his home during a recent storm and when he dashed outside another struck nearby causing temporary paralysis of his left side and loss of speech.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest, it may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.
